Arst now it is considered entirely right and proper to lambast the idle rich and to tell how unhappy and dissatisfied and characterless and immoral they are. Just as deserving of condemnation are the idle poor. The rich can afford financial y to be idle. The idle poor are poor because they are idle. The man and woman to be envied are the two who are living and working and planning and building together. Speaking along this line the Chicago American sensibly says: "All real happiness is in creation, and minutes. you can not buy a good thought with a million dollars or ten millions, and all the strings of pearls and diamond sunburis, and humble servants cannot bring happiness compared to that of the poor woman content in caring for her children and respecting the man who works

LOOKING AFTER YOUNG SOWS

Best Plan Is to Have Them Farrow After Grass and Clover Start to Secure Good Pasturage.

In nearly all cases the first litter is the herdest draft on the system of the dam and for this reason, if no other, the young sows should have special care. It is beet, so far as can be done to have the young sowe farrow after grass and clover have made a good than plenty of good pasturage, to enable a dam to produce milk, and a young sow if she is to suckle ber litter of pige well, must have food welladapted to milk production. A sow should always be so gentle that in ease it becomes necessary, she can be bandled without unduly exciting her. It is never good policy to disturb a sow at farrowing, unless absolutely necessary. As a precaution against her eating her pigs, she should bave a light opening ration for a few days be- is weakened, and it finally falls out fore farrowing and then a bucket of or becomes so loose that it may be warm slop ready for her whenever she picked out easily, leaving the opening gets up. ile careful about over-feeding her for the first three or four days and then gradually increase her ra tions until she is given all that she will readily eat up clean. After the pigs are a week old, she may be allowed the run of a pasture, feeding slop regularly at least two times a day and three times is still better. Be careful to feed regularly. Slop stuff, milk or wheat bran, oil meal and milk, are hard to heat and are all good foods for breeding sowe.

BOAR NEEDS GOOD ATTENTION

Also Prove Excellent Conditioner Don't Overfeed.

The boar needs pasture as well as do the other hoge or the other stock. Paeture will not only save feed but will also be a good conditioner. If you keep a boar in a small pen, it is always muddy or dusty and then if he ie poorly fed in this pen he cannot do his best, and the pigs will be a disappointment. On the other band, the boar can be fed too much, but the trouble le usually that he doesn't get enough.

it is often thought that the boar is simply a bili of expense and that he does not need much feed. Such being the case, be is fed a little just because be must be kept alive, but this feed ie the ecantleet amount that can be given and the handlest feed-nearly alwaye just a few ears of corn. He needs something stronger than ear corn. it may coet a little more, but wili prove money well spent. PREPARE STOCK FOR MARKET

Experience Has Shown That There le More Growth the First Year Than Second-Keep Pushing.

In preparing stock for the market too much strese cannot be laid upon rapid development of the animal. Experience has shown that in proportion to the food consumed by young animale, there is more growth the first year than the second, and more the second year than the third, and with not yet accepted the call. each increasing year the increase in weight gets emaller in proportion to the amount of food consumed, consequently it is very escentist that all young animals be kept thrifty and growing; especially ie this true with all animals intended for market. This is seen in the production of baby beef, which ie one of the most profitable businesses to engage in. A quick growth, and an early maturity, returns the best profit among cattle, swine, sheep and poultry. The intelligent farmer, in preparing his stock for market, should always bear in mind the importance of pushing bis stock from the time they are born until placed on the market. Every day should see a gain in weight along the lines of profit, yet at the same time this crowding should not be overdone. There is danger of injuring animals by overfeeding, especially when young, If, however, the feed rations are properly made, looking toward just enough and not too little, or to much, good results may be expected in the end.

Examine Pigs' Teeth. If the sow le observed to jump up frequently while suckling her pigs or to lie on her belly to prevent them from suckling, better examine the pigs' teeth. You may find them so sharp as to wound the sow's teats as to cause her great pain and annoyance. The needle-like points of the pig's teeth may be pinched off with a pair of pinchers.

Time for Making Pork. In a well bred hog that is growing and feeling right there is no time when it will make more pork for the food consumed than from ten weeks to six months of age.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a lowpriced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

Country is at Peace.

The country, I am thankful to say, is at peace with all the world, and many happy manifestations multiply about us of a growing cordiality and sense of community of interest among the nations, foreshadowing an age of settled peace and good will. More and more readly each decade do the nations manifest, their willingness to bind themselves by solemn treaty to the processes of peace, the processes of frankness and fair concession. So far the United States has stood at the front of such negotiations. She will, I earnestly hope and confidently believe, give fresh proof of her sincere adherence to the cause of international friendship by ratifying the several treaties of arbitration awaiting renewal by the senate. In addition to these, it has been the privilege of the department of state to gain the assent, in principle, of no less than 31 nations, representing four-fifths of the population of the world, to the negotiation of treaties by which it shall be agreed that whenever differences of interest or of policy arise which cannot be resolved by the ordinary processes of diplomacy they shall be publicly analyzed, discussed, and reported upon by a tribunal chosen by the parties before either nation determines its course of action.

There is only one possible standard by which to determine controversies between the United States and other nations, and that is compounded of these two élements: Our own honor and our obligations to the peace of the world. A test so compounded ought easily to be made to govern both the establishment of new treaty obligations and the interpretation of those already assumed

Huerta Must Let Go.

There is but one cloud upon our horison. That has shown itself to the south of us, and hangs over Mexico. There can be no certain prospect of peace in America until General Huerta has surrendered his usurped authority in Mexico; until it is understood on all hands, indeed, that such pretended governments will not be countenanced or dealt with by the government of the United States. We are the friends of constitutional government n America; we are more than its friends, we are its champions; because in no other way can our neighbors, to whom we would wish in every way to make proof of our friendship, work out their own development in peace and liberty. Mexico has no government. The attempt to maintain one at the City of Mexico has broken down, and a mere military despotism has been set up which has hardly more than the semblance of national authority. It originated in the usurpation of Victoriano Huerta, who, after a brief attempt to play the part of constitutional president, has at last cast aside even the pretense of legal right and declared himself dictator. As a consequence, a condition of affairs now exists in Mexico which has made it doubtful whether even the most Continued on Last Page

Catarrh Victims

Get Immediate and Effective Relief By Using Hyomei. * Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh. There is no stomach dosing-

When using this treatment, you breathe healing balsams and effectively reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, the catarrhal gernis are destroyed-quick and sure relief results.

Hyomei often restores health to chronic cases that had given up all hope of re-covery. Its best action is at the start of the disease when the breath is becoming offensive, and constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, drippings in the throat, or that choked up feeling begin to make life a burden. At the first symtom of catarrhal trouble, surely use Hyomei. Ask B. L. Middelton for the complete outfil, $1.90. He will refund the money if does not give satisfaction.

The burden of work carried by the United States post-office is enormous, and it is made vastly more onerous by reason of carelessness on the part of the public in sending improperly directed letters' and packages. In Chicago, for instance, a recent count showed that out of 465,-750 pieces of first-class mail received on one day, no fewer than 201,930, or 44 per cent, were insufficiently or improperly directed.

Have Beautiful Hair Use Parisian Sage

If your hair is too dry, brittle, dull, thin, or if the scalp burns and itches, immediately begin the use of Parisian Sage. The first application removes the dandruff, cooks and invigorates the scalp and increases the beauty of the hair by making it soft—wavy—abundant.

Parisian Sage supplies hair needs. It is delicately perfumed—not sticky or greasy. Surely try a 50c bottle.

County Court

Notwithstanding the inclement weather of Monday morning and the activity of many farmers who are busily engaged in stripping tobacco, a fairly large crowd came to town to attend county court. An unusually large supply of stock of all kinds was on the market and prices in most cases were satisfacat the Madison Stock Yards, with prices ranging from $3.50 to $7 per cwt. Everything was fairly well sold by Tuesday morning. The horse market was active and quite a number changed hands at good prices. Ten good business horses sold to shippers at $150 to $200. Few mules on the market, with ready sale for good stock at $175 to $225. Very little demand for suckling mules and they brought good prices.

Wills of Entire Family Offered For Probate.

An occurrence undoubtedly without a parallel in the history of the Madison County Court took place in Judge Shackelford's court Monday, when the wills of an entire family was offered for pro-bate. The testaments of Ben L. Banks, his wife and little son, Ben, Jr., were presented and the two former were probated and the latter rejected. Mr. Banks left his entire estate to his wife. Mrs. Banks bequeathed her estate to her husbond, while Ben, Jr., willed to David Banks, a relative at Cane Valley, his blcycle, to his father and mother his automobile and his money to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Banks, of Cane Valley, Adair county.

The will of Cyrus T. Fox was probated. Mr. Fox left his entire estate to his

Kenton Suits and Overcoats

Unequaled for Fit, Style and Long Service. In our many years experience, always striving for the highest standard of quality, we have never found so much value in any make of clothing as the "Kenton." It excels in Fit, excels in Style, excels in that Quality that wears long and retains its shape and color. The coats have hand-made collars that snugly fit the neck; the coat fronts are lined with the finest hair cloth that prevents sagging, wrinkling or breaking across the chest, while the inside canvas thoroughly shrunken will not further shrink when wet and pull the coat out of shape. Kenton clothing fits and satisfies, try it.

For fall and winter we show one of the largest and most complete collection of Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats in the State outside of Louisville. Fine Worsteds, Thibets, Chinchillas and Cheviots in every variation of fashionable color, tailored in the newest styles. In full confidence of our ability to serve you as well as any store in Kentucky, we invite you to come to us for your winter outfit.

> Currency Reform. 1 turn to matters of domestic concern. You aiready have under consideration a hill for the reform of our system of hanking and currency, for to its whole business life and necessary to set credit free from arhitrary and artificial restraints. I need not say how earnestly I hope for its early enactment into law. 1 take leave to heg that the whole energy and attention of the senate he concentrated upon it tiil the matter is successfully disposed of. And yet I feel that the request is not needed-that the members of that great house need no urging in this service to the country.

I present to you, in addition, the urgent necessity that special provision be made also for facilitating the credits needed by the farmers of the country. The pending currency bill does the farmers a great service. it puts them upon an equal footing with other husiness men and masters of enterprise, as it should; and upon its passage they will find themselves quit of many of the difficulties which now hamper them in the field of credit. The farmers, of course, ask and should he given no special privilege. such as extending to them the credit need and should obtain is legislation which will make their own ahundant and substantial credit resources avaiiabie as a foundation for joint, concerted local action in their own be-The Democrats of the Senate have de- half in getting the capital they must use. Allowed to Lag. pass that we have allowed the industry of our farms to lag hehind the other activities of the country in its development. I need not stop to teil you how fundamental to the life of the Nation is the production of its food. Our thoughts may ordinarily be concentrated upon the cities and the hives of industry, upon the cries of the crowded market place and the clangor of the factory, but it is from the quiet interspaces of the open valleys and the free hillsidea that we draw the sources of life and of prosperity, from the farm and the ranch. from the forest and the mine. Without these every street would be sitory fallen into disrepair. And yet the farmer does not stand upon the same footing with the forester and the miner in the market of credit. He is the servant of the seasons. Nature determines how long he must wait for his crops, and will not be hurried in her processes. He may give his note, but the season of its maturity depends upon the season when his crop matures, lies at the gates of the market where his products are aold. And the security he gives is of a character not known in the broker's office or as familiarly as it might he on the counter of the hanker. Efficiency in Farming. The agricultural department of the government is seeking to assist as never before to make farming an efficient husiness, of wide co-operative effort, in quick touch with the markets for foodstuffs. The farmers and the government will henceforth work together as real partners in this field, where we now hegin to see our way very clearly and where many intelligent plans are already being put into execution. The treasury of the United States has, by a timely and weliconsidered distribution of its deposits, facilitated the moving of the crops in the present aeason and prevented the scarcity of available funds too often experienced at such times. But we must not allow ourselves to depend upon extraordinary expedients. We must add the means by which the farmer may make hia credit constantly and easily available and command when he will the capital by which to support and expand his business. We lag hehind many other great countries of the modern world in attempting to do this. Systems of rural credit have been studied and developed on the other side of the water while we left our farmers to shift for themselves in the ordinary money market. You have but to look about you in any rural diaffict to see the result, the handicap and embarrassment which have been put upon those who produce our food.

Study Rural Credit. Conscious of this backwardness and neglect on our part, the congress recently authorized the creation of a special commission to study the vari ous systems of rural credit which ope, and this commission is already prepared to report. Its report ought to make it easier for us to determine what methods will he best suited to our own farmers. I hope and helieve that the committees of the senate and house will address themselves to this matter with the most fruitful results. and I helieve that the studies and recently formed plans of the department of agriculture may be made to serve them very greatly in their work of framing appropriate and adequate iegislation. It would he indiscreet and presumptuous in anyone to dogmatize upon so great and many-sided a question, but I feel confident that common counsel will produce the results we must all desire. Let Sherman Law Stand.

Turn from the farm to the world of business which centers in the city and in the factory, and I think that all thoughtful observers will agree that the immediate service we owe the husiness communities of the country is to prevent private monopoly more effectually than it has yet heen prevented. I think it will he easily agreed that we should let the Sherman antitrust law stand, nnaltered, as it is, with its dehatable ground about it, hut that we should as much as possihle reduce the area of that dehatable ground by further and more explicit iegislation; and should also supplement that great act by legislation which will not only clarify it but also facilitate its administration and make it fairer to all concerned. No doubt we shall ail wish, and the country wili expect, this to he the central subject of our deliberations during the present session; hut it is a subject so many-sided and so deserving of carefui and discriminating discussion that I shall take the liberty of addressing you upon it in a special message at a later date than this. It is of capitai importance that the husiness men of this country should he relieved of ali uncertainties of law with regard to their enterprises and investments and a clear path indicated which they can travel without anxiety. It is as important that they should he relieved of embarrassment and set free to prosper as that private monopoly should he destroyed. The ways of action should he thrown wide open. I turn to a subject which I hope can he handied promptly and without serious controversy of any kind. I mean the method of selecting nominees for the presidency of the United States. I feel confident that I do not misinterpret the wishes the expectations of country when I urge the prompt enactment of legislation which will provide for primary elections through out the country at which the voters of the several parties may choose their nominees for the presidency without the intervention of nominating conventions. 1 venture the suggestion for the retention of party conventions hut only for the purpose of declaring and accepting the verdict of the primaries and formulating the platforms of the parties; and I suggest that these conventions should consist not of delegates chosen for this single purpose but of the nominees for congress, the nominees for vacant seats in the aenate of the United States, the senatora whose terma have not yet closed, the national committees, and the candidatea for the presidency themselves, in order that platforma may he framed hy those responsible to the people for carrying them into ef-independence for Philippines.

These are all mattera of vital do mestic concern, and hesidea them, outside the charmed circle of our own national life in which our affections command us, as well as our consciences, there stand out our ohligations toward our territories over sea. Here we are trustees. Porto Rico, Hawaii the Philippines, are ours, once regarded as mere possessions, are no longer to be selfishly exploited; they are part of the domain of public conscience and of serviceable and enlightened statesmanship. We must admin ister them for the people who live in them and with the same sense of responsibility to them as toward our own people in our domestic affairs. No doubt we shall successfully enough bind Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands to ourselves by ties of justce and affection, but the performance of our duty toward the Philippines is a more difficult and debatable matter. We can satisfy the ohligations of generous justice toward the people of Porto Rico by giving them the ample and familiar rights and privileges accorded our own citizens in our own territory and our ohligations toward the people of Hawaii hy perfecting the provisions of aelf-government already granted them, hut in the Philippines we must go further. We must hold steadily in view their ultimate independence, and we must move toward the time of that independence as steadly as the way can he clea. id and the foundations thoughtfully and permanently lald.

Test of Responsibility.

Acting under the authority conferred upon the president hy congress, have already accorded the people of the Islands-a majority in both houses of their legislative hody by appointing five instead of four native citizens to the memhership of the commission. believe that in this way we shall make proof of their capacity in counsel and their senae of the responsibility in the exercise of political power, and that the success of this step will he aure to clear our view for the steps which are to follow. Step hy step we should extend and perfect the system of self-government in the islands, making test of them and modifying them as experience discloses their succeases and their failures; that we control of the native citizens of the archipelago the essential instruments of their life, their local instrumentalities of government, their schools, all the common interests of their communities, and so by counsel and experience set up a government which all the world will see to he suitable to a people whose affairs are under their own control. At last, I hope and beileve, we are heginning to gain the confidence of the Filipino peoples. By their counsel and experience, rather than by our own, we shall learn how best to serve them and how soon it wiil he possible and wise to withdraw our supervision. Let us once find the path and set out with firm and confident tread upon it and we shall not wander from it or linger upon it.

Double Duty Toward Alaska. A duty faces us with regard to Alaska which seems to me very pressing and very imperative; perhaps I should say a double duty, for it concerns both the political and the material development of the territory. The people of Alaska should he given the full territorial form of government, and Alaska, as a storehouse, should be unlocked. One key to it is a system of railways. These the government should itself build and administer, and the ports and terminals it should itself control in the interest of all who wish to use them for the service and development of the country and its peo-

But the construction of railways is only the first step; is only thrusting in the key to the storehouse and throwing back the lock and opening the door. How the tempting resources of the country are to be exploited is another matter, to which I shall take the liberty of from time to time caliing your attention, for it is a policy which must be worked out hy wellconsidered stages, not upon theory. but upon lines of practical expediency. It is part of our general problem of conservation. We have a freer hand in working out the problem in Alaska than in the states of the Union; and yet the principle and object are the same, wherever we touch it. We must use the resources of the country, not lock them up. There need be no conflict or jealousy as hetween state and federal authorities, for there can be no essential difference of purpose hetween them. The resources in question must be used, hut not destroyed or wasted; used, hut not monopolized upon any narrow idea of individual rights as against the abiding interests of communities. That a policy can he worked out by conference and concession which will release these resources and yet not jeopard or dissipate them, I for one have no doubt; and it can he done on lines of regulation which need be no less acceptable to the people and governments of the statea concerned than to the people and government of the nation at large. whose heritage these resources are. We must bend our counsels to this end. A common purpose ought to make agreement easy.

Specially Important. Three or four matters of special importance and significance I beg that you will permit me to mention in clos-

Our hureau of mines ought to he equipped and empowered to render even more effectual service than it renders now in Improving the conditions of mine labor and making the mines more economically productive as well as more safe. This is an allimportant part of the work of conservation; and the conservation of human life and energy lies even nearer to our interest than the preservation from waste of our material resources. We owe it, in mere justice to the railway employea of the country, to provide for them a fair and effective employers' liability act; and a law that we can stand by in this matter will be no less to the advantage of those who administer the railroads of the country than to the advantage of those whom they employ. The experience of a large number of the states abundantly proves that.

We ought to devote ourselves to meeting pressing demands of plain justice like this as earnestly as to the accomplishment of political and economic reforms. Sociai justice comes first. Law is the machinery for its realization and is vital only as it expresses and embodies it.

Safety at Sea.

An international congresa for the discussion of all questions that affect safety at sea is now sitting in London at the suggestion of our own govern ment. So soon as the conclusions of that congress can he learned and considered we ought to address ourselves among other things, to the prompt alleviation of the very unsafe, unjust, and burdensome conditions which now surround the employment of sailora and render it extremely difficult to obtain the services of spirited and competent men such as every ship needs if it is to be safely handled and brought to port. May I not express the very real pleasure I have experienced in cooperating with this congress and sharing with it the labors of common service to which it has devoted itself so unreservedly during the past seven months of uncomplaining concentration upon the husiness of legislation? Surely it is a proper and pertinent part of my report on "the state of the Union" to express my admiration for the diligence, the good temper, and the full comprehension of public duty which has already been manifested by both the houses; and I hope that it may not be deemed an impertinent intrusion of myself into the picture if I say with how much and how constant satisfaction I have availed myself of the privilege of putting my time and energy at their disposal alike in counsel and in action.
